First, let me make it clear that I am not enrolled in any type of affiliate or association program. This means that I do NOT get paid for sharing these resources and links with you.

Secondly, although some of this information may seem similar, each author brings his or her personal perspective to each topic. There is very little new or original information in the world, but how it is presented and where we are in our lives makes the difference whether or not we hear the message and how much we retain.

Listed below are what I consider ten of the best information resources on the web today - over 400 pages of information - food for thought that has the potential to change your life.

These are e-books, articles, reports, guides and manifestos that I have discovered and believe can help you be more creative, find your dream job, start your own business, follow a dream, create a new life, make you think about the world in a new way, look at your life with new eyes, and possibly open the door for you to change the world.

Most of these resources can be downloaded for free with no strings attached, meaning you do not have to provide any personal information. But, a few will require you to provide your name and email address. Either way I think you will be surprised and pleased by the quality, professionalism and helpfulness of each and every download.

Please note, this list is not ranked. All of these information resources are of equal value depending on your particular interests or needs. Skip around and pick something that catches your eye, then come back and choose another until you've read them all.

If you have any comments, feedback or suggestions for future top ten lists you may contact me at Sandy@TheDreamingCafe.com.
